4ST502 : Introduction to Pastoral and Theological Studies
Winter 2010: Course Syllabus

Instructors:
William Davis (Theology),

Course Description: An introduction to biblical, theological and practical ministry studies within the Reformed tradition. A foundational course for integrating other courses at RTS.

Objectives: By the end of the course the participants will demonstrate:

1. a basic understanding of each area of the RTS curriculum by interacting in class discussions and completing reading and writings assignments.
2. the ability to discuss theological method within the Reformed tradition in ways appropriate for the church today by interacting in class discussion and reading and writing assignments.
3. an awareness of the importance of spiritual maturity for the theological enterprise by completing exercises and writing assignments in and out of class.

Texts:

Books (required):

Recommended Additional Reading:
______, The Church (Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity Press, 1995)
Movies (shown in conjunction with the training week of December 10th & 11th)
Either Luther or Chariots of Fire

Writing Assignments (1 & 2 are compulsory; and you must choose either A or B)

1) Significant Other Report (25%): 1200-1500 words. Each student is required to find a close “significant other” (spouse / friend / relative) who is willing to read and discuss “Letters Along the Way.”1 The discussion should focus on at least 10 points which most stood out to either the student or the significant other. This report will summarize the most important lessons learned about the student’s calling to ministry and to other life obligations. Due to Lowe (email blowe@rts.edu) on or before January 25th (midnight)

2) Confession Response (50%): 1000-1200 words for EXPLANATION; 300-500 words for the QUESTIONS, 600-1000 words for ANSWERS to Questions.
a. A thoughtful and reasoned EXPLANATION of the student’s ability to subscribe to EITHER the Westminster Standards (Confession and Catechisms) OR the Three Forms of Unity (Heidelberg Catechism, Belgic Confession & Canons of Dort) OR some other confessional/affirmational standard, depending upon the tradition the student is most likely to serve. (Standards other than the two major Reformed standards need to be approved, but the instructor cares most about having students respond to their own standards. So expect approval in some form.) Responses should address the overall system of doctrine, particular strengths and weaknesses on the system, and areas where any degree of exception would be likely. (Due to Davis at davis@covenant.edu by December 31, 2009 for assessment and distribution to questioners.)

b. A set of at least five QUESTIONS for another student to answer about the other student’s Explanation. (Due to Lowe blowe@rts.edu and to the assigned student author at or before the Lowe Weekend, Jan. 15-16th.)

b. ANSWERS to the Questions posed by another student and by the course instructors.
(Due to Yeo at jyeo@rts.edu at or before the Yeo Weekend, Feb. 5-6th.)

A) Hero Essay (25%): 1500-1800 words. A careful introduction to the most significant contributions of ONE major figure to the development of the Reformed tradition. This eyessay should assume an audience unfamiliar with the history of the Reformed tradition but interested in its leading figures. Chronological treatment of the figure's work is not necessary, but attention to pastoral themes is essential. Due: February 6th @ midnight (email to Dr Lowe – blowe@rts.edu)

1 Ideally it would be great if this person could read the entire book. But they should at least read the first half – Letter’s 1-24.
B) Final Exercise: Eight page maximum (12 pt, double-spaced, 1 in. margins) set of answers to essay questions over lecture material and readings. Due February 27th @ midnight (emailed to Dr Lowe – blowe@rts.edu)

Dr Davis (December 10th-11th) – AUGUSTA
