Course Description:

The student will be expected to develop a philosophy of engaging cultural issues as a Christian leader. The goal is to help each other devise a theology, a strategy, and a commitment to address the larger social issues in a way that brings people to Christ. This will be a class that focuses on the basic principles of equipping the saints for trans-cultural cooperation, service, and evangelism.

Assessment Information:

Each student will be expected to attend and participate in class discussions.
Grades will be determined in three areas: attitude and respect in class (33%), thelogical evaluation and personal action plans derived from one of the two text books (33%), and research and group leadership strategy on a major Biblical compassion issue such as poverty, environment, war/peacemaking, sanctity of life, etc. (33%). Each of these latter two projects are to be written papers between 5 and 10 pages. The due date is one month after the last day of class.
